

Recommendations

Ask for a recommendation

Received (1)

Given (0)

Rui Luo

Software Engineering
Manager at Fitbit

January 7, 2020, Rui was senior to
H. Race but didn't manage directly

Race started as our summer intern then transitioned into a part time position while finishing school. Race worked on a frontend portal to handle admin functions for our backend. Race first started by learning Ember.js to implement the solution with current tech stack. He then discovered and presented to the team on the limitations of Ember.js and worked with the team to choose a new path of using REACT. In the end Race successfully implemented a very polished solution and impressed the team. I am very pleased with Race's strong technical ability. Furthermore, I am impressed that Race does not hold any presumption when given a task but goes in and investigates the technology thoroughly and make a fair judgement. Lastly, Race was able to make his commitments on time with many different tools such as communicating difficulties early with teammates, settle with imperfect but good-enough solutions, etc. I believe these traits will make Race an excellent teammate. See less